High School Notes

Supt. H. H. Faust returned Friday from Madison where he attended the convention of city superintendents of the state.

At a meeting of the junior and senior classes Friday evening, Earl Yahn, the president of the senior class, extended an invitation to the junior classes to the party which will be held Friday, Oct. 17, Raymond McCue, president of the junior A. class accepted the invitation.

J. Prin. G. A. Baasford in speaking of the reception which the Federated missions held Friday evening for the teachers of the city said: "The committee which planned the affair is to be congratulated upon the success of the reception. Many novel stunts were carried out. It was something I know, which all teachers enjoyed and appreciated. Perhaps no one but a teacher can appreciate the value of becoming acquainted with the townspeople."

"You Are the Hope of the World," the new book by Hermann Hagedorn, was given by Miss A. Baasford at the high school this morning. Mr. Baasford read the first chapter of the book. The book is addressed to the boys and girls of America of high school age. "Europe's young people are dead," said Mr. Baasford. "America must shoulder the responsibility of the world. Europe will call for new poets, new merchants, new scientists, and new inventors, and no one will answer. Life's gone," he said, "to young America, you are the hope! Don't you feel his mantle on your shoulders?"

Agriculture classes have been going up to the fair grounds to inspect the Loveloy cattle. The freshmen class will be in the morning and the sophomore class this afternoon.

The sale of season tickets for the football games began today under the leadership of 10 girls who were appointed by G. E. Zimmerman, the coach.

Fannie Wilson, Hilda Meisner, Katherine Foster, Helen Taylor and G. E. Zimmerman have been appointed on the faculty social committee. Misses Mildred Norck, Mabel Keesey, Jessie Menzies and Pauline Cullen and John Arbuthnot on the student-faculty social committee.

Rural School News

Supt. O. D. Antisdal is transacting school business at Newark today.

A box social and program are being arranged by the pupils and teacher of the Northrop school, east of Clinton Junction, for Friday evening. Miss Clara Sorenson, principal, will be the first meeting of the year to be held at the school.

Rural teachers who transacted business at the county superintendent's office Saturday were: The Misses Julia Donahue, Fulton, Marion Atcham, Beitz, Caroline Heine, county farm, Agnes McIntyre, Evansville, Dorothy Patton, Footville, Anne Moriarty, Milton, and Maude Hozarth.

Training School Notes

The Jefferson school and the training school were closed today for fumigation of the building, because of a case of scarlet fever.

Principal P. J. Lowth spent Saturday in Madison where he attended the superintendent's conference.

For the purpose of studying farm machinery, training school students visited the Janesville Machine company this morning. This afternoon the students visited the state school for the blind.

Miss Florence Snyder, Milwaukee, arrived in this city today to take charge of the music department of the schools of the city. Miss Snyder was for two years supervisor of music at Two Rivers. Her duties began today. The glee clubs will probably be organized at the high school this week.

NO BEER—NO WORK
London. The miners and iron workers of Bargoed, South Wales, have decided to adopt a "No beer, no work" policy.

More than 20 Boy Scouts performed great service in the sale of the larger poppies Saturday. They canvassed all parts of the city, turning in more than $100 at the end of the day.

400-YEAR-OLD DANCE
London—The Abbots Bromley Horn Dance, which lapsed during the war, and which dates from mediaeval times has been revived at Stord-shire. Twelve men, each wearing deer skulls, with antlers, dance through the district and call on the Lord of Eltham. The dance is 400 years the custom has been observed, with the exception of the war-time period, on the Monday after "Wakes" Sunday.

Nature's Way

Winter Quarters in the Woods

White summer is here all animals may camp more or less in the open air, but winter with its icy winds and fierce storms calls for snugger and more protected homes and late autumn finds them seeking sheltered quarters. Burrows in the earth are deepened, holes in trees sought out and warmly lined and dens amid tumbled rocks appropriated by these little folks of the wild.

By careful searching you may find some of these woodland homes; they are plentiful enough. One tree is known to have harbored several families of mice, and the natural enemy of the others, yet they were all alive when discovered. At the foot of the tree under some rocks were found burrows underneath or into hollow logs or old tree trunks and he is out again when fair weather comes. Being so seldom at home you may meet him almost any time of day, though as a rule he does his hunting in the gray of early morning and the evening twilight.

Some of the WHITE-FOOTED MOUSE builds his one-room house deep in the forest, but oftenest it is near a clearing in a tangle of vines and bushes. The nest—like a bird's—is made of grasses, moss, dried leaves, and inner tree bark. It is rounded in shape and the small doorway is like a hole in the bark.

"These birds are going. Follow them on your map." See next week's article.

WON'T AMERICANS RESENT THIS?

A tin-plate roller, testifying before the senate committee investigating the steel strike declared that foreign workmen had openly avowed that it was their intention to strike so that the control of the steel mills would pass to them. They asserted that when they had gotten control of the mills they would operate them through committees.

Isn't that bolshevism? Isn't that a warning to the American workmen? Is not NOW the time for patriotic Americans to arise and demand that the power of these foreigners be taken from them?

This tinplate roller earned $17 a day and had as his assistants nine men none of whom received less than $7.50 per day. He said most of the American workmen were satisfied with their jobs. He also said that 90 percent of the 1,000 workmen he was talking about were foreigners—men who were non-citizens of the United States and who could not speak English. This man served his country as a Y. M. C. A. war worker.

His statement should arouse every American member of the American Federation of Labor to protest against the action of these non-citizens who are undermining American labor. Now is the time to put the stamp of disapproval upon the radicals. It perhaps will take courage for the American Federation of Labor to change over to the side of the public because of the opportunity for radicals to say that they are playing into the hands of the "bosses." But they would not be doing any such thing. They would be defending their own organization against agitators who had proclaimed that they are against this government and against men who have declared that their ambition is to take over the steel plants and operate them by committees.

The strike is practically lost, as we predicted it would be, because the public is not in sympathy with the aims and ambitions of the men who are engineering it. The public is not in sympathy with the stand of the steel corporation officials but would rather favor them with its support than stand for these non-citizens interrupting our American life and institutions.

After a week of almost "fraternal" rioting was started Saturday at Gary. It is said that agitators were responsible. Rioting is what the agitators want. Without it the strike is a failure, for the majority of strikers are not favorable to the plan to keep them in idleness when they can be earning big wages. It has been necessary for the radical leaders to incite the men to bloodshed in order to keep their program from falling. They know if they can get a lot of foreigners excited enough to kill and maim they can frame an excuse for continuing the strike and keep the men out of the plants. They make an opportunity for calling attention to the cruelty of the police and guards who are protecting property and thus keep the men in an upheaval of passion.

THE FOREMOST PROBLEM.

A New York newspaper features on its first page each day a question asked by its "Inquiring Reporter" of five persons, with their answers. The questions are put to average people and may be regarded as a fair statement of public opinion.

A few days ago the "Inquiring Reporter" started to find out what the average man would do first if he owned a newspaper. Practically all of the answers were like this: "I would get at the causes of labor unrest and print the truth."

So, then, by a limited straw vote, we learn the nature of the topic that is now engrossing the public mind.

The layman might find it not so easy to dispose of the labor problem if he were suddenly to become the proprietor of a newspaper. He would discover a wide variety of opinions, if he were to begin making inquiries among the well-informed only. Supposing he were to ask the question, "Why so many strikes just now?" It is fair to assume that he would get answers like this:

Because the working men have been unable to keep up with the increased cost of living.

Because radical leaders, desiring personal authority and power, are persuading well-paid, well-treated men to quit work.

Because of the restless tendency to do as little work and get as much money as possible.

Because labor leaders regard the present as a good time to get control, when business is good, money is plentiful, and capital dislikes to lose its profits by closing plants.

Because capital wants to curb or break the unions in order to have a free hand.

Because the shortage of skilled labor in practically all lines tempts the men to take advantage of a bad situation and make universal demands.

Because the example of profiteers tends to encourage all who can do so to start on the warpath.

These are only a few of the explanations of unrest that might be offered. However, times like these cannot last very long. Winter is coming and cold weather will have a tendency to cool hot heads. We are all going to become more calm and rational and more favorably disposed toward our fellow men very soon.

WONDERFUL PROGRESS AND PROSPECTS

This country now has a merchant fleet of 1,280 vessels. Five years ago the American flag floated over only 15 vessels of more than 1,000 ton register. That is an item of news worth printing. We like to hear of things like that.

Our gross tonnage in June had reached 11,987,000. We have 24 percent of the world's steam tonnage, as compared to only 4.45 percent in 1914. The war's effects on us were not altogether bad. The American flag is back on the seas.

Here is another cheerful item: Our trade balance during the war period, the excess of exports over imports, amounted to more than $13,500,000,000. The history of the world's trade has no parallel.

The world's stock of gold, as everyone knows, became much disarranged during the conflict. Several of the nations lost large parts of their stores of metal. The gold supply in this country was increased by $1,000,000,000.

In spite of the fact that the franc, pound and mark are greatly depreciated in value as compared with the dollar, which would tend to discourage foreign purchases here, our exports continue large. August and September were big months. We have the food and raw materials that other nations want, and so they

THE FLAG OF OPPORTUNITY

All that I need, or shall need while I live,
The Starry Flag of Freedom waits to give.
I can become the man I hope to be
Beneath the glorious banner of the free.
There is no joy the heart of man may crave
O'er which our flag in beauty does not wave,
No dream of future greatness which he holds
But can be won beneath its radiant folds.

Earth has no need of fairer flag than this;
No banner now can offer surer bliss.
Ours is a flag which all men can respect,
Beneath its folds all men can stand erect,
Climb high to fame and write upon life's scrolls
The glorious records of their very souls.
There is no honest joy beneath God's skies
Which man can say to him the flag denies.

God silence tongues wherever they may be,
Who would defame the banner of the Free!
Withhold the hands that seek to tear it down
And from the brow of freedom snatch the crown!
Teach them to know that here they may attain
In honor's way the goals they seek to gain;
Teach all who live beneath its splendid folds
To catch the vision of the joy it holds.

—Copyright 1919 by Edgar A. Guest.

must come to us, even though inflation at home has cheapened their money and lessened its purchasing power here.

Conditions on the whole are favorable for a long period of prosperity for this country. Now if we will get down to work and do our best, we are going to have a chance to get somewhere.

HIGHWAY PREPARATION

The recent rains have put the highways of the country in such shape that it will be necessary for a great deal of work to be done in order to have them in shape for the winter. On most of the roads leading from Janesville, ruts and sink-holes have resulted from the soft weather. Some of the patrolmen on the state trunk highways are now at work, smoothing over the bad places. However, it would seem that now is the time to put every roller and scraper owned by the county on the job. Rock county has stood out this year as having the best highways in this section of the state. This is especially true when compared with Dane and Jefferson counties. We should maintain that reputation if possible. Preparation for the winter will not only aid the farmers, but will save much expense next spring.

Prof. Paul S. Reinsch, formerly of the University of Wisconsin faculty and later minister to China, has secured a job as counselor of the Chinese government at a salary of $20,000 a year. Another argument showing that college presidents and professors should be paid enough money to keep them with us. If Reinsch is worth $20,000 a year to China, he is worth more than he got as a professor at the university.

The people of the United States are pleased at the report that President Wilson's condition is better. It is unfortunate at this time that the chief executive should be forced to relinquish his duties. Although a great many persons do not agree with the president in his stand on the treaty, all will admit that he is patriotic and conscientious and desirous of bringing to a solution some of the problems before us.

The report that Postmaster Burleson sent his Chinese cook to help sort the mail in the postoffice does not surprise us much. From the service we have been getting, we could believe most anything one could tell us about the way the department is being handled.

Short Cut to Education

By FRÉDÉRIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—It is a wrong. The antique system whereby we struggled through eight or nine years of reading, writing, and arithmetic, and then suddenly entered high school to tackle such mysterious subjects as Latin, science, and algebra, is all wrong. Educators now advocate a sort of shortcut known as a junior high school.

A junior high school, in case you haven't kept up with the styles in education, takes the place of seventh and eighth grades and first year high school. The pupil is promoted from the sixth grade into the junior high school, where he continues some of the old grammar school studies, and at the same time is gradually and painlessly introduced to high school subjects and high school methods of teaching. Graduates from the junior high school enter the second year of a regular high school. The need for a transition school of this sort may seem a trivial matter, but experiments have proved its practical value as a means of keeping the growing boy and girl in school and out of mischief. The number of junior high schools in the country is increasing by hundreds every year.

Few Go On to High School. According to a report by Commissioner of Education Claxton, only one out of every 10 children who enter the first grade of our public schools reach high school to obtain a high school diploma. To elaborate—4,068,691 children entered first grade in 1906. In 1913, 4,068,691 children entered first grade in 1913. The next year, when these same children entered high school, the class numbered 40,686 and the number who graduated in 1918—245,000 high school graduates out of 4,000,000 first graders.

The big drop comes between the eighth grade and high school, and during high school years the enrollment steadily falls. The reason for this, it is stated, is not so often that the pupils are needed to work as that he is kept at elementary studies too long and does not take enough interest in school to enter high school, or else that he enters high school and never gets adjusted to the standards there. He leaves the eighth grade where he is called "Harry" and treated accordingly, and enters the "classical" and altogether different atmosphere of high school to be called Mr. Smith. Instead of being kept on the job, he now has from two to eight, none of whom take any special interest in him. Mr. Smith aside from his duties in the school is left to his own devices. The greater amount of freedom is not always used wisely, and the student's sense of responsibility is not always sufficiently developed for him to work alone. As a result he falls behind in his work, becomes discouraged, and sooner or later quits school for good.

Enters Transition Period. It is in cases like this that the junior high school scores. Instead of being counted in with "the children" until he is 13 or 14, Harry Smith is sent to junior high school at 11 or 12. Instead of having one teacher, he has his particular guardian and is definitely accountable for him. As his interest in geography, American history and general knowledge is rapidly developed, he is given a chance to take up a foreign language, typewriting, or manual training.

As he progresses through the three years, the course becomes more and more the typical high school regime. Athletics, drama, and dramatic work are introduced to take the place of playground games and other amusements in vogue in the graded schools. In cities, the junior high school course generally includes domestic science for girls and shop work for boys. In rural schools agriculture is added to the regular schedule, and a good truck garden is planted and studied by the pupils. The vocational work is an important branch of the course. In Vermont, where junior high schools are established by state law, every effort is made to adapt such work to the locality and to make it of practical value. In one school the boys manifested special interest in telegraphy. A course was soon instituted, and the boys established a telegraph line and operated it. In an orchard community tree pruning and culture were stressed, and the boys were urged to apply their school instruction to the trees on their home land.

Girls Prepare Lunches. Girls in some of the foremost schools utilized their lessons in cooking by taking charge of the school lunch, both preparation and service, while at sewing class they killed two birds with one stone by use of the mending as material for the lessons. The maxim that education should prepare for citizenship was nobly applied by one principal who took his entire school to the town meeting. "We occupied seats in the gallery," he reported, "and the order was splendid. The moderator called the attention of the voters to the school and suggested that they follow its example."

The resume of even a few of the junior high school systems now in force in this country shows a great variety of subjects and subjects, as in high school, so that pupils falling in part of the work ordinarily repeat only those subjects. The main high school idea has been under consideration for about 20 years. A change from the eight year elementary, four year high school system, proposed in 1892 when a group of educators discussed the matter of dividing the 12 years of public school education into six years of graded school and six years of high school. It was then declared that eight years is too much time to devote to elementary subjects, and that a public school course would be better shortened or the two years transferred to high school work.

Would Lower College Age. The original purpose in shortening the years of public schooling was to lower the age of college entrance. The plea was that on an average students entered college at 17 years, at which they must cover seven or eight years of college and university work in order to enter a profession. The result according to President Eliot of Harvard, was that the average college graduate who fits himself well for any of the learned professions, including teaching, is 27 years old. This argument was considered potent, but as neither colleges or high schools ever agreed to shorten their courses or lessen their requirements nothing came of it.

The conference of 1892 did, however, lead to the junior high school which has in the past few years become so popular. In 1918 the first junior high school was introduced, and 10 years later there were only nine in the country. But since then, the project has grown rapidly until now junior high schools are in operation in all parts of the country.

The change in organization is too new and the schools are too scattered for any up-to-date statistics to be collected. But whenever the new system has been put into effect, comparative figures and instances show that a large percentage of pupils who otherwise would have obtained no high school education are sufficiently interested by the junior high school to complete it, and often go on to the senior high school.

HUNT DEER IN PLANE

Adirondack Mountains, N. Y.—Sportsmen remaining for the hunting season in the Adirondacks are discussing the feasibility of using airplanes for the purpose of locating the feeding grounds of the deer. During flights made as passengers in an airplane from Plattsburg, that has recently been operated at Lake Placid and in that vicinity, some of the sportsmen there claim to have obtained a good idea of the habits of the deer. It is probable that with the opening of the hunting season another machine will be put in service for the express purpose of locating the best hunting grounds.

MONEY IN IT

A year ago he walked the streets
With smiles and tread and slow.
An old hand at his neck,
His face denoting woe.
His coat and trousers shone with age,
His hat, one black, was gray.
And as he shambled here and there
The people edged away.

Last night I saw him in his car,
In perfect evening clothes;
He wore the smile, the diamonds, too!
The man of millions knows:
His coat was rich in fur,
His silk hat crowned his brow;
A friend explained the fellow's change—
He's teaching dancing now.

Many records in the shade,
In high cost of living and

But 'tis hoped that autumn cools
Bolshevism and its tools!

Good-by, Summer! You were dry
From the first day of July.

For the drought was forced on you.)
Other things were just as bad—

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information, may write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Is there anything objectionable in addressing a business letter "Dear Mr. Smith?"

A. E. T. H.
A. This is correct under any circumstances. "Dear Madam" is more formal; "My dear Mrs. Smith" is a better acquaintance. In no case, however, is there anything personal in the use of the word "dear." It is a mere form of salutation.

Q. Is it true that when an automobile is traveling, that part of the miles an hour there is a portion of which does not move at all?

A. B. G.
A. No matter how fast an automobile is traveling, that part of the miles an hour which is in contact with the ground is in the instant stationary. At the same time the part of the wheel that is highest is traveling at an accelerated rate.

Q. If a white woman marries a member of an Indian tribe, does she legally become a member of the tribe and entitled to tribal rights?

A. F. W. C.
A. She becomes a member of the tribe and is entitled to share as though she were Indian born.

Q. Why does the Gulf stream exert a greater influence on the climate of Europe than on that of America?

A. F. B.
A. The winds that most affect the climate of both the United States and Europe are from the west. Thus they would blow off shore in the United States and fall to bring the warmth of the Gulf stream, while in Europe they blow toward the shore and warm it.

Q. Who was responsible for the purchase of supplies for the navy?

A. W. A.
A. Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts, was purchasing agent for the navy during the war. He was in the paymaster corps for 20 years, having advanced through all the grades. Before that he was a newspaper reporter in South Carolina.

Q. Have engines been standardized by the railroad administration?

A. C. A.
A. When the government took over the railroads it encountered many difficulties due to the fact that there were so many makes of engines and that different sets of spare parts had to be kept for each make. It decided to standardize the new engines it bought. Early in 1918 it issued the specifications and purchased for $50,000 apiece, 1,025 engines with interchangeable parts. All engines bought since then have conformed to this plan.

RIG OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED AGAINST 40,000,000 RATS

London.—Preparations have been completed for an overwhelming slaughter of rodents during National Rat week, Oct. 20-27, which will be observed throughout the country. War to the death has been declared on the more than 40,000,000 rats that infest the British Isles. Expert rat destroyers declare that the rats of this country are the most "knowing" animals in the world. They declare that rats travel about the country on freight trains and when the trains stop at a big junction, the rats, guided by uncanny instinct, leap to the yards and dash into the nearby refreshment rooms.

M. A. C. Hinton, of the Natural History Museum, in an appeal to every citizen to join in the campaign against the rodents, declares "The rat is the bitterest enemy we have within our gates. Wherever a rat travels he carries death in his train."

CORRECTS MAGISTRATE

London.—A Haring police court, a defendant fined $50 for causing a nuisance by keeping pigs told the bench, "You can't do it. The maximum is $25." The chairman consulted his colleagues, found that the defendant was correct, and reduced the fine accordingly.

TRUNKS GLOW AT NIGHT
London.—Firm Spaldwick, in Huntingdonshire, comes the story of a strange phenomenon which is exciting the curiosity of the inhabitants. A few days ago some old elms were cut down and now at night the chips and trunks glow with a brilliant blue-green light. The light is so vivid that passerby on several occasions have thought the trees were on fire.

BOWLERS ORGANIZE FOR BIG SEASON

For the first time in history, Janesville is to have a city bowling association sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress. The application for sanction will be submitted to A. C. Landry, president of the A. B. C., after the special meeting of bowlers called for Friday evening at 7:30 at the Arcade alley on North Main street.

Officers of the new association have been elected as follows: William Taylor, president; James True, vice-president; E. C. Baumann, secretary; and J. Merwin Beck, treasurer. The organization will be known as the Janesville City Bowling Association. Formation of a city league, composed of from six to eight teams, all members of the association, will be completed shortly.

Rain Spoils Great Day For Local Fans

Janesville baseball fans who traveled to Chicago yesterday, expecting to witness a hot battle between the White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds, returned to Janesville this morning greatly disappointed. Rain started to fall in the big town shortly after 8 o'clock Sunday morning. A few "bugs" who were in line waiting for the sale of bleacher tickets to start, were drenched before word was sent out that the game was called off.

EMERALD GROVE

[By Gazette Correspondent.] Emerald Grove, Oct. 4.—Friday evening members of the church gathered at the parsonage as a surprise on the pastor, Reverend Edward Ward, to help them celebrate their wedding anniversary. All went to the church parlor, where a social evening was spent and a lunch was served. Harold Ward, in behalf of the friends, presented Rev. Marks and wife with a sum of money. Rev. Marks responded in his ever pleasing and ready manner.

Cut flowers were in abundance and four long tables were set. About 65 guests were present.

Glenn MacArthur went to Madison Wednesday, where he attended a banquet given for members from the different colleges of the state.

Miss Hattie Foot is ill and under the doctor's care.

Mrs. Hannah Barless has moved her household goods into the Paulson house. She will make her home this winter with her sister, Mrs. Eliza Lloyd.

Le Roy Van Allen and wife attended the soldiers' homecoming at Footville Wednesday.

TWO "BIG TEN" TEAMS DISPLAY POOR FORM

One conference team was defeated and another was tied, both by second-rate teams, furnishing big surprises in Saturday's football games in the middle west. Wisconsin, however, showed championship form and beat Illinois, 37 to 9, on a muddy field.

The two surprises of the day came when Indiana's "Big Ten" eleven was beaten by Center college of Kentucky in the last two minutes of play, 14 to 3. The Hoosiers led by a 3 to 0 score up to the last 120 seconds, when forward passes proved their undoing.

Purdue escaped with a 14-14 draw against the heavy team from Franklin, Ind., while Iowa defeated Nebraska, 15 to 0.

The Michigan Aggies just barely defeated Albion college, 13 to 3, missed goal kick deciding the game.

Noire Dame finally beat Kalamazoo college, 14 to 0, after being played to a standstill half the game.

The other leading mid-western teams played true to form. Minnesota rolled, up 39 points against North Dakota, Ohio State 28 against Wisconsin, while Michigan whitewashed Case, 34 to 0.

In the east there was nothing of a surprising nature unless it was Cornell's inability to count more than 9 points against Oberlin.

Leo Powers Heads New Phantom Club

Leo Powers, captain of the high school football team, has been elected president of the Phantom club organized at the Y. M. C. A. Other officers elected are: Harry Kelly, vice-president; Kenneth Bick, secretary-treasurer.

The club will meet monthly to revive the old Phantom songs and to make plans for attendance at the 1920 summer camp. A banquet will be enjoyed each month.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for about six months. One evening he told me he loved me and asked me to quit going with the other boys. I told him I was too young to be engaged and he said he would wait a while.

Later he started going with another girl. Then he talked of going on a trip with several boys and he tried to persuade him not to go. He told me he wasn't going and made a date with me for the next night.

I waited and he didn't come. The next day I heard he had gone and yesterday I received a letter from him and today a card.

Do you think he really loves me? Did he do right in leaving me with the boys when I didn't want him to? Can you please tell me how I can make him want to be with me? I feel as though I cannot live without him.

It is impossible to say whether or not the young man loves you. Write him a wholesome, friendly letter, not mentioning love or asking him to come back. He will come without a doubt. Try not to think of love because you are making yourself miserable.

I think it was all right for him to go away with the boys since you are not engaged and have no claims on him. The trip will be a fine thing and you should be glad that he had such an opportunity.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and have a girl friend of the same age who is very dear to me. The boy she goes with is a fine fellow and she is all right for me to go with him. If I care to when he asks me? Should she object? I do not want to lose her friendship.

ANXIOUS.
If you go with the boy you will probably lose your girl friend's friendship. Be true to your girl friend and wait until some boy likes you especially.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sweet 18. I attended dance with my boy friend several nights ago and when he brought me home he kissed me. A few days later he asked me to become his wife.

I have said nothing to my mother. Do you think I had better? Am I too young to get married? I love this boy with all my heart.

GENEVIEVE.
You will never regret it if you tell your mother what you have told me. Her advice will help you without a doubt. I think you are too young to get married.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls 13 years of age. Will you give us information where to write to some addresses?

DIMPLES AND BROWN EYES.
It would be useless to write for a position as movie actor. The manager would have to see you and you are too young to get into that kind of work now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18. Do you think I am old enough to have company at my home if my parents approve?

I am now going with a boy whom I love and I am with him, but do not think of him when I am not with him. Do you think I really love him? He has told me many times that he loves me and I believe him.

D. V. B. H. M.
You are old enough to entertain young men. You are not in love, because if you were you would think more of the one you loved. Besides, you are too young to be seriously in love.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

Jim remained firm in his refusal to speak to the foreman about contributing to the support of his deserted family. There is a stern, hard side to him that I never even dreamed of before we were married.

I lay awake all night thinking of what the foreman's wife had told me about being independent of my husband. She is right, too. She was talking sound economics—the greatest question of modern times—and she didn't know it.

When Jim left the house this morning we were still deadlocked over the matter of the foreman. I determined not to speak to him. I was firm in my resolve to do it if he would not.

I knew he would telephone me before I could leave home. And he did.

"Well, little Lady Headstrong, got over your stubbornness? Let me play in an elephantine effort to be playful. I was in no mood to endure it."

"No, my dear," said I quietly, "I'm coming down as soon as I can. I'm dressed. I shall make any disturbance, don't be afraid of that. But I cannot see another woman suffer as she is without trying to help her."

Jim gave me a headstrong, a bit little grin to insist on her own way, but I'll take that out of her fast enough. Trust your 'manful boy' for that. She is really sweet natured, for all her strength of mind, mother darling, and a corking housekeeper. You'll appreciate that when you visit us. I'll insist on you coming for Christmas except that we shall be at sixes and sevens on account of leaving so soon for New York. But once we're settled there you'll see.

The letter stopped abruptly, and I sat with it in my lap feeling very much as if a steam roller were being driven down upon me. I was married to Jim and his loving mother.

However, I was so grateful to Jim for promising to talk to our foreman, the foreman that I could not get really mad at his lordly letter to Mamma Salsbery. It amused me, even. I had succeeded so well in this foreman matter—just by reasoning firm—that I felt I could cope with all Jim's high-mindedness in the future.

Jim came home earlier than usual. He showed a square pasteboard box into my hands as I met him with my cordial kiss at the door. The last two miles were silence at the other end of the line.

Household Hints

MENU HINT.
Breakfast. Toast. Poached Eggs. Coffee. Luncheon. Cold Beef Sandwiches. Sliced Tomatoes. Tea. Fruit Tapioca.

Dinner. Tomato Canape. Roast Leg of Lamb, Brown Gravy. Mint Gelatin. Mashed Potatoes. Creamed Carrots. Lettuce. Frozen Marshmallow Pudding and Coffee.

TESTED RECIPES.
Mint Gelatin—Shred the leaves of a bunch of mint and place in a saucepan. Add one-half cup of water and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Now drain and add:

One-half cup of sugar, three-quarters cup of gelatin, one cup of water. Stir to thoroughly dissolve and then place one tablespoon of gelatin to soak ten minutes and then add and the hot mint preparation. Stir in and add two drops of green vegetable coloring into it and then pour into a pan to mold. Cut into blocks and serve with the meat or three.

Pea Pudding—(A meat substitute). One cup peas, three-fourths cup bread crumbs, three-fourths cup milk, one-fourth cup sugar, one egg, pinch of salt.

Boll and mash peas, add bread crumbs, well beaten eggs, chopped butter, sugar, salt. Put in milk; mix well. Put into a buttered baking dish, bake 30 minutes and serve with a white sauce.

Cabbage Salad—Two cups cabbage (white or red), crisp and firm, cut into shreds with a cabbage cutter; wash and drain, add mayonnaise dressing, chopped onion and cucumber (one small onion, one small cucumber), mix well; serve cold.

Makes Ice Cream Better—When making ice cream add one cup of softened grape-nuts (breakfast food) for every gallon. It is delicious; and also add some horseradish and in cooking pour two cups of milk. Chop whites finely, marinate with French dressing.

Egg Salad—Separate yolks and whites of four boiled eggs. Chop whites finely, marinate with French dressing.

London—Miss Frances Turner, aged 19, created something of a record on the Midway when she swam 10 miles in three hours and 30 minutes. The last two miles were swum in complete darkness.

DANGER FROM NEW BRUSHES

Anthrax ("wool sorter's disease") is a very painful and very fatal disease which attacks human beings. The anthrax bacillus is notorious for its great resistance to ordinary germ-destroying agents, particularly when the bacillus is in the spore state, as it often is.

Bristles imported from oriental countries for the manufacture of brushes, especially shaving brushes, in America have been found contaminated with anthrax bacilli on several instances. For this reason the United States public health service sent out inquiries and found that numerous cases of anthrax had occurred in men who had purchased and used new shaving brushes. Such cases have occurred usually from the use of shaving brushes which lacked the manufacturer's name, for careful disinfection of imported brushes has been carried out by reputable manufacturers under instructions from the public health service for months past.

The purchaser of a brush may make the brush safe by soaking it for four or five days in a 10 percent solution of formalin (40 percent formaldehyde) in water, having the solution kept about blood warmth and agitating the brush in it. Do not have contact of the solution with all the bristles. This is advised by the public health service.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Puffs Over Eyes.
Is the hair worn in puffs or drawn loosely over the ears injurious to the ears? (Alice M. E.)

ANSWER—Puffs for Hair Fever.
In your list of places where one may hope to be free of hair fever you failed to mention one of the best—Poloskey, Michigan. I have found relief there for several seasons through August and September. (J. E.)

What is Lanolin?
(Miss L. W.)
ANSWER—Lanolin is the oil or grease removed from sheep's wool. It is mixed with water and is perhaps more penetrating than mineral oil. It is often used as a base for salves or ointments.

WE HAVE A VICTORY TO WIN.

To have money that one is able to spend means that one is master of a certain kind of power.

But to have money that one is in a position to spend and then not to spend it, because one sees good reasons for not doing so, means that one has double power—over the money and over oneself.

During the war many people of high ideals exercised this double power. Since the war is over there has come a great relaxation in this respect. People seem to feel that the need of living simply is over.

But is it? There are unquestionably several causes for higher prices. But just as unquestionably, one of them is that while full production has not yet been resumed, people are buying as they never bought before. The result is that there are so many more bidders for every article that the price of the article automatically goes up.

Nine Million Lost Days.
Perhaps you do not realize how far under normal our production still is. You know that hundreds of thousands of soldiers have not yet returned to their places in the industrial machine. But do you know that they never bought before. The result is that there are so many more bidders for every article that the price of the article automatically goes up.

Why, you old adorable angel! I cried. "It's for Christmas things, pussy-cat. I suppose you've got a list as long as your arm."

"Oh, thank you, Jim, darling! And even more than for the flowers I thank you for taking care of that Tom Harley matter. I do hope he'll make it right with his wife and children."

"Sure he will," said Jim. "And not a shade of doubt crept into my heart."

that the motive is not personal but national economy.

In another family the motto (with the same motive) is: "Do not buy anything you can get along without." We have a victory to win, now just as surely as during the war—a victory over high prices and unsettled conditions. Are you helping to win it?

Paderewski Forgets How To Play Piano

London, Sept. 23.—Interviewed after signing the Austrian peace treaty, Ignace Jan Paderewski volunteered the information that he had quite forgotten how to play the piano.

"Yes," says the former artist, "I have forgotten my art. I have little time to think of it. I have not played a piano for two years and three months. I do not regret it."

Then he added with a tinge of pride: "I am happy to have sacrificed to the cause of my country what I held most dear."
